RecruitMilitary Career Fairs

FEEDBACK FROM THE UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF LABOR: “RecruitMilitary shares the Department of Labor’s commitment to increasing employer awareness of the value veterans bring to the workforce. This career fair in Jacksonville was very successful in connecting veterans to employers, and we look forward to working with RecruitMilitary in the future to conduct more of these extremely worthwhile events.” Charles S. Ciccolella, Assistant Secretary of Labor for Veterans’ Employment and Training

FEEDBACK FROM A SATISFIED CLIENT: “The RecruitMilitary Career Fair in Atlanta was a first-class event in a large metropolitan convention center. It compared favorably with other career fairs I have attended. Maybe the bottom line is one gets what one pays for. The fee was certainly worth it.” Keith Troutman, Project Manager, MTC Technologies

WHY HIRE VETERANS?

Hiring military veterans is a great way of saying to those who have served, “Thank you for your service and sacrifice.”

It is also very good business. Transitioning and veteran men and women have character attributes that make them great civilian employees, including leadership, initiative, self-discipline, and an excellent work ethic. Typical transitioning personnel do not need industry experience to make a positive impact immediately.

Veterans acquired outstanding skills and training while in the service. The overwhelming majority of active-duty personnel work in military employment categories that have easily recognized civilian counterparts ranging from “Engineering, Science, and Technical” and “Machine Operator and Precision Work” to “Transportation and Material Handling” and “Executive, Administrative, and Managerial.” Personnel who trained in combat occupations make outstanding leaders in Corporate America.

Veterans can help employers meet diversity goals with regard to ethnicity and gender. Active-duty personnel are 20% African-American, 9% Hispanic, and 15% women.

A high proportion of veterans have the security clearances necessary for certain civilian jobs. Clearances are especially valuable to companies that hold or seek federal contracts.

WHY RECRUIT AT OUR CAREER FAIRS?

Our candidate-aggregation strategy brings a steady flow of active job seekers to our large database of candidates at www.recruitmilitary.com, and we promote each event to candidates throughout the region to be served by the event.

We send e-mail invitations to a special portion of our database: those individuals who live in, or desire to live in, the region to be served by the event. We also announce each event to transition counselors at military bases: We e-mail flyers to them for online distribution to transitioning personnel and for printing and posting in the transition facilities. In addition, we announce the event in print and broadcast media.

We select our career fair locations according to the density of the nearby veteran population and the proximity of large military bases. We select venues in those locations that make our events both a great experience and a commercial success for our clients.

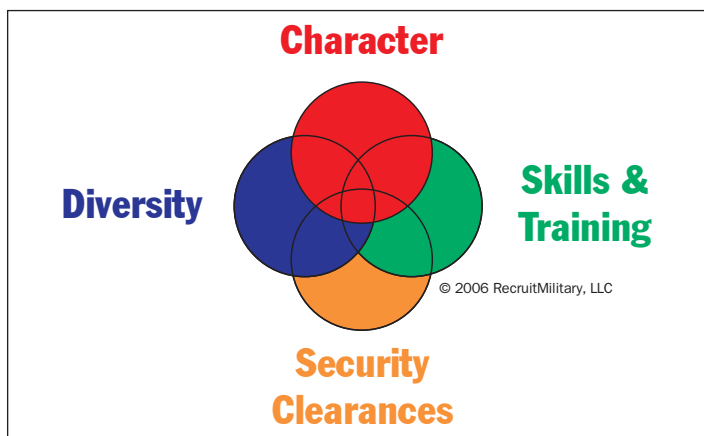

We take good care of our clients, doing everything from positioning their booths for maximum effect to printing attractive Program Guide booklets for their ads.

We offer outstanding value by packaging other RecruitMilitary hiring products with participation in our career fairs—database subscriptions, job postings, advertising in online and print media, and contingency hiring services.
